Digital Planet Announces New Rickshaw™ Software
New Dispatch Software Release at JEMS Conference

MECHANICSBURG, PA, March 1, 2012 -- Digital Planet, Inc. officially introduced their new ambulance dispatch software, Rickshaw, today at the kickoff of the annual EMS Today: The JEMS Conference & Exposition in Baltimore. For the remainder of the conference, Digital Planet will be providing exhibit attendees with insight into the great benefits and features that their new software has to offer.

The EMS Today Conference is hosting numerous workshops, leadership speakers, clinicals, and an exhibit hall at the Baltimore Convention Center that will continue through Saturday, March 3. This extensive conference focuses on quality education, networking, and new products that can assist EMS personnel with making their jobs safer and more efficient in today's medical industry.

The Rickshaw™ software is a non-emergency dispatching system that was designed by EMS personnel for EMS. Its user-friendly application allows dispatchers to keep detailed records and promptly input information in order to keep their company organized and efficient. Rickshaw also allows users to fully customize their interface to their own preferences, which makes this product easily adaptable to each organization's specific needs.
